FAREWELL TO GRAPEVINE

From Tim Keightley, Belmont Rd

Recently, I said to someone that I would contact them by email. They looked at me in bewilderment. "Who uses email any more, it's so slow!?" Their preferred method of communication was perhaps WhatsApp or Snapchat but even then, their attitude seemed to suggest, "don't write something too long because I won't read it all." A communications revolution in my life time! (At this point modern communication requires that I write LOL.)

I suspect that the printing and circulation of Grapevine, did not feel especially revolutionary even when it was one of the main forms of communication between the three churches. If that is the case it may be because we take for granted the freedom we have to communicate, and the wealth of knowledge we have at our finger tips.

The first printers of the Scriptures, and of much other early printed literature, were often persecuted for their activities. Many, like Wycliffe and Tyndale, were driven by the belief that the scriptures should be accessible to all, not just the learned. They also believed that translation and interpretation should not be in the hands of powerful and corrupt church leaders. They were among those who used this ability to advocate for much more freedom of belief and expression. Many paid with their lives.

In this light, Grapevine was indeed a part of the communication revolution. More voices than just those of (in my earlier time) Bob Smart, Tim Keightley or Ruth Matthews were to be heard! Thank goodness for that! (I feel it important to say that we weren't corrupt!)

In recent years, much of society has passed from the electronic, to the electric age of communication. As part of this, it feels as though use of communication channels has become fragmented, less collective, more individualistic, in the face of so much choice of what to see, hear and take in. For many, life has moved online. There are online churches and virtual worlds. The communication revolution continues, and churches are working hard at finding ways of communication essential unchanging truths in this always changing world.

We give thanks for Grapevine and for all those who produced and circulated it. For how it pulled us together and kept us collectively informed. It was revolutionary in its time.

From Austin Janes, Grovehill

Do you remember losing your first teeth? (I don't mean the ones you put in the glass by the bed!!!!)

I remember my first one which I thought would be there forever, but then seemed to wobble for ages, attached by the smallest part of skin! I remember losing it while eating my Nan's Christmas pudding and custard! I don't remember being bothered by the gap, because I had heard that a new tooth would grow in its place.

When Grovehill Church was opened in 1977 we had the full range of ministers, Anglican, Baptist, URC and Roman Catholic. It was easy to feel part of each other and something exciting. There were distinct identities and connections. People wanted a church that represented the churches they had moved from.

Today people join Grovehill Church of the Resurrection, not because of a Denomination, but because they feel a belonging. But it is important they aren't just 'Grovehillians', but Christians. They need to know there is a bigger church out there.

I have been grateful for the Grapevine Magazine, because it has been the piece of skin keeping the 'tooth' of Grovehill Ecumenical Partnership connected to the Baptist Churches. But things change, and I hope that like my baby teeth were replaced by adult gnashers, we will find the necessity for stronger connections between all three of our churches. Maybe more social gatherings with our Ecumenical partners are needed... So if you see your ministers in a café, we are just growing adult teeth!

From Colin Cartwright, Carey

So, it falls to me to finish these ministerial ramblings, in what is, sadly, our final issue of 'Grapevine'. But more seriously, thanks Austin and Tim for your contributions to the magazine again! My own illustration, mentioned in a recent talk on John 15, is the amazing vine our daughter has in her Essex garden. This abundantly fruitful plant, providing shelter and shade and tiny, dark grapes with the sweetest taste, is a wonderful picture, both of our relationship with Jesus, as well as a picture of the church universal.

Our three churches owe a great debt to the team of people who over the years produced, photocopied, sorted, folded and distributed the Grapevine magazine for us. Most recently: Hilary, Paula, Susan, Clifford, Keith, Joan, Marion and many others, too numerous to mention here. You know who you are.

This magazine has been an invaluable link between our three congregations, particularly during our Covid lockdowns. And, in the future, copies of these magazines will provide an important resource in researching the stories of our churches. As you know, Grapevine has been replaced by its pale shadow, the monthly 'News from the Fellowships' sheet.

What of future communication? As Austin says, we need to find new ways, as one vine, to strengthen what connects us. There may be many new ways of communicating these days, via social media. Dare I mention AI? However, nothing can replace humans and all creation, meeting 'in the flesh'. After all, this Christmas we celebrate our God, the Supreme Communicator. 'The Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us'. Thanks be to God for the fulfilment of all his promises in Jesus - to our three churches, and to all humanity and all of creation.

ADVENT REFLECTIONS FROM EMBRACE THE MIDDLE EAST

The theme for our Advent Reflections emails this year is The Light Bearers. Using readings set for the Advent season, we will focus on how we can reflect the love, peace and light of God in the midst of violence and darkness.

As you prepare for Christmas, it is our prayer that we may all find a way to build a more Christ-childlike world.

GRAPEVINE

As most of you know, this is the last issue of 'Grapevine'. A period of Team Ministry started in the town in 1973, involving the Belmont Rd, Boxmoor, Carey and Grovehill and Marlowes churches. The first issue of what we know as 'Grapevine' was produced in May 1974 and it has evolved over the years. Many people have been involved with its' production in various roles and we are grateful to them all. Editors have been: Hugh Cross, Roger Higginson, Marjorie Johns, Gloria Knight and myself. Since the Team Ministry came to an end in 2002 'Grapevine' has continued to provide a link between the churches and remind us tthat we are part of a wider family of Baptists and, Through the Anglican/Free Church Congregation at Grovehill, also a part of the wider Church.

The First Christmas

JESUS WAS BORN ABOUT 2,000 YEARS AGO IN THE SMALL TOWN OF BETHLEHEM, NEAR JERUSALEM.

AN ANGEL HAD TOLD MARY SHE WOULD HAVE VERY SPECIAL BABY

MARY AND JOSEPH MADE THE LONG JOURNEY FROM NAZARETH TO BETHLEHEM. THEY HAD BEEN ORDERED THERE BY THE CENSUS.

BUT THE TOWN WAS FULL... THE ONLY SHELTER THEY COULD FIND WAS A STABLE...

...WHICH IS WHERE THE BABY JESUS WAS BORN.

SHEPHERDS IN FIELDS NEARBY RACED TO SEE THE BABY. AN ANGEL HAD TOLD THEM WHERE JESUS HAS BEEN BORN.

WHY IS KING CHARLES ON A MISSION TO TACKLE FOOD POVERTY

King Charles is on a mission to tackle food poverty and rising food waste. It is said that he and the Queen eat daily slices from the same cake until it is finished, as part of a drive to curb their personal food waste.

As for the nation, the king has been increasingly concerned that in the UK, 12 million tons of food is thrown away each year - even though almost three quarters of it could still be eaten, according to experts. In contrast, an estimated 4.7million people are living in food poverty.

To combat this problem, King Charles has launched The Coronation Food Project, to coincide with this, his 75th year.

Up to eight new food hubs around the country will store food, prepare it, and package it, before redistributing it to organisations like food banks and community kitchens. The long-term goal is to circulate 200 million meals a year.

In the meantime, King Charles is careful not to throw his cake away. Is there one simple thing you could do in your own kitchen this Christmas, to curb your personal food waste?

CHRISTIAN AID CHRISTMAS APPEAL

As we prepare for Christmas, girls as young as 13 are leaving school and preparing to get married. They have skills and dreams – but, born into poverty, too many girls are growing up without human rights to control their lives. They're disadvantaged from the moment they're born, because of their gender.

By donating, your gift could help transform the lives of young women in remote, vulnerable regions like Bangladesh's Kurigram district. With training in business skills, they'll become change agents. They'll use the power of the internet to support each other and their families, and have businesses, giving them a brighter future to lift themselves and their communities out of poverty.

Will you help provide that chance for young women today?

Kakoli Khatun is 21 and lived in Kurigram, one of Bangladesh's poorest and most disaster-prone regions, where 70% of families live in extreme poverty. Kakoli is studying for a degree at college. At the same time, she's running a successful business from home, making beautiful quilts, and selling them online. She supports her parents and creates sustainable employment for nine other young women. Kakoli launched her business with training, start-up funding and support from Christian Aid and our partner, Aid Comilla – made possible by supporters like you.

As we celebrate Christmas, let's make 2024 the year they can live with dignity, safety, security, and equality. Your gift could help young women be a powerful force for change.

CHRISTIAN AID CHRISTMAS APPEAL

January is named after the Roman god Janus. He had two faces, so he could study the past and see into the future.

At the start of a new year, we dispose of old calendars and diaries. No doubt, it is only natural to look back at the former year. Perhaps we recall occasions of happy times that include special moments with dear friends. On the other hand, our old year may have had disappointments, such as loss of employment or deterioration of health.

We might also reminisce at the life of our church. We remember our building regularly filled for our services. There were many joyous occasions in which we were encouraged and supported. However, over time, things have changed. We may now have a dwindling congregation, with its regular members elderly and less active.

However, these pondering are not meant to make us depressed! We can look back with thankfulness that God has been with us. Also, we can look to the future, praying that God will give us wisdom, strength and guidance for our journey ahead.

The Bible is full of instances where individuals and indeed the Jewish nation looked back. They had annual Feast Days, through which God showed them His grace and favour. These festivals were important because they had a dual purpose – to look back and face forward. The Passover looked back to the Israelites deliverance from slavery in Egypt. This meal was a reminder that just as God had cared for them in the past, He would be with them in the future.

Similarly, for us, the Communion Service is a reminder of the sacrifice of Jesus who secured our salvation. We look back to His life, death, and resurrection so that we can live with confidence that our sins are forgiven, and one day we will live in God's eternal Home.

January can be a month when remember God's blessings and faithfulness in the past, enabling us to look to the future with confidence. As we start a new year, may it be our prayer that God will enrich us wherever we are, and that we will know He is always with us.

ECOCHURCH

12 Days Wild is our festive nature challenge, encouraging you to do one wild thing a day from the 25th December to the 5th January each year. In those quiet days between Christmas and New Year, winter wildlife is just waiting to be explored! Your wild acts could be little things to help nature - like recycling your Christmas tree or feeding the birds – or ways to connect to the natural world, like taking in the calm of stargazing.

Avoid throwaway plastic, go homemade, and keep wildlife in mind. It'll add a sweet personal touch that'll mean the world to someone this Christmas!

Wildlife Trusts' '12 Days Wild' mini Christmas challenge encourages everyone to do one wild thing each day between 25 December and 5 January. Sign up on our website: www.ecochurch@arocha.org to receive lots of inspiration that will help you stay wild over the Christmas period.

NEWS FROM EMBRACE THE MIDDLE EAST

LATEST UPDATES 7 DECEMBER

Significant damage to two medical clinics in Gaza

We have received the following update from our partner the DSPR:

"Unfortunately, our medical centre in the Al-Daraj area has been levelled to the ground. The primary health care clinics, the pharmacy, the physiotherapy, the optical and the dental clinics and the psychosocial unit, do not exist anymore. Nobody from our staff was there but unfortunately tens of neighbours who used to be our clients were killed and injured in that bombardment.

Nevertheless, our staff are proceeding in response to the huge needs and to reduce the pain and suffering of the people in Gaza; we are proud of them, we believe that they are real heroes, they are standing for care and support, working days and nights while trying to take care of their family members and themselves."

Now they are mainly working with displaced families in the south of the Gaza Strip:

- Running psychological interventions for children and mothers, as well as fun activities for children, to help alleviate the psychological pressure they have as a result of their traumatic experiences
- Distributing hygiene kits and organising health awareness sessions
- Providing primary health care services, including distributing some medicines at their DSPR-NECC Rafah Clinic

Israel and Palestine: Prayers for peace

Sometimes it is difficult to know how to pray in times of crisis, so we have put together a prayer to help guide your intercessions. As a fragile, temporary truce begins, please join us in praying for a continued de-escalation of the violence, for a full ceasefire and for a just peace to prevail.

We give thanks for the release of hostages and continue to pray for those still in captivity. We pray for the unconditional release of all hostages held by Hamas.

Lord in your mercy, hear our prayer.

We continue to pray for a safe and prosperous tomorrow for Palestinians and Israelis, a future of equal rights for all and an end to the occupation.

Lord in your mercy, hear our prayer.

We lift Embrace’s partners and their staff before you, loving heavenly Father. We ask that they remain safe and know your peace and protection.

Lord in your mercy, hear our prayer.
